HURTING YOUR STAMPS

So many occasions occur on which a slight mishandling may damage a stamp, that the real wonder is that any survive without having been hurt in some way, small or large. The number of older stamps with at least one perf. tooth off, or with a small tear or thin spot, seems to increase steadily. In fact, it is getting hard to find stamps prior to say 1915 (unused copies) on which the gum outside the area covered by the hinge is not largely missing. Even the recent material seems of late to include an increased proportion of copies with defects arising from mishandling.

No one method of mounting stamps is responsible for all the flaws. Thus, the newer method, the pochette, Crystal Mount, or Visi-Tray, is by no means free from having contributed its quota. If a container mount is chosen that fits too tightly, its changes in size with heat and humidity are likely to put creases onto the stamps — very often across some perf. teeth, which fall off in later handling. If one is chosen that fits loosely, a corner can easily get folded over. Also, many a stamp gets nicked with the tongs when taking it in or out of such a mount. Certain of these mounts, used largely for alleged protection to better items on sales or approval books, are exceedingly difficult to extract the stamp from without hurting it.

Harm From Hinges

The old-fashioned hinge contributes its share of harm, too. If pulled off forcibly, it is unfortunately apt to take some of the paper of the stamp with it, leaving a thin spot. Tears in the edge of the stamp also have resulted from twists when an adherent old hinge is torn in half along its fold.

But with hinges the chief causes of harm are founded on misuse of the device. This takes several forms.

One, very usual, is to affix too much of it to the stamp. Not over a third of the length of the hinge is needed on the stamp end. This gives a space a half inch square for affixing to the album page. With good hinges such as the brands most sold, one can get three or four successive mountings from one hinge by not wetting more than a portion of the album-end when it is left this large.

Furthermore, when a small portion is affixed to the stamp, instead of a large area, theused hinge can later be removed more fully without violence or force. In fact, one can even leave the torn remnant on the stamp as a sort of shield to which to affix later hinges.

Misplacing of Hinges

Much stamp damage is also caused by misplacing the hinge. Some collectors, for example, affix it in the middle of the back of the stamp instead of at the upper edge. Thus, when the stamp is lifted, or removed, the chances of damage are much increased. Also, using it thus, its entire purpose, to enable one to see the back of the stamp when desired, is defeated. Some few, apparently misinstruced juniors mostly, even affix the hinge upside down, with its fold near middle of stamp and pointing downward.

On triangular stamps there are many wrong ways, and one right way, to use the hinge. It belongs on the upper left margin, if the stamp is a normal triangle, point upward. Should a bit of it then protrude, one carefully clips off this corner of the hinge with small scissors. If the triangle is inverted, apex down, of course, one handles it like any other stamp in hinging.

There isn't any more wasteful alleged economy than cutting hinges into halves, lengthwise or crosswise, to make each one into two. Stamps so mounted seem to detach themselves "almost when just looked at."

Always a Risk

Many a stamp is hurt by trying to plll it off paper. This just can't be done without a risk of damaging, by thin spot or tear, at least by most of us (myself included, despite years of experience). If the stamp is one of those fortunately rare ones whose ink is not water-fast, the gum can be softened without harm by getting the water onto it through the paper from the rear—a slow process. Also, some gums are terribly water-resistant. Early Persians, and many others made by the Austrian Government Printing Works before World War I, are thus afflicted. Prolonged soaking loosens some of the gum, but as a rule, one has to lay the stamp on a hard dry non-absorbent surface, face down, when wet. Then the adherent paper has to be carefully literally "chiselled off" with an edge not sharp, such as the end of the tongs—chiselled off in bits.

In removing fast - adherent paper, one needs to watch lest one scrape a hole or thin spot into the stamp.

Layers of Hinges

On stamps with gum, which have hinges firmly adhering, and specially those with several layers of hinge remnants, usually one can remove the laminated cardboard thus formed, layer by layer. A fine brush is used to spread water over the hinged area being careful not to put on much nor to get it onto the untouched gum. Two or even three applications normally will loosen the topmost hinge-butt, which most of the time shows it is loose by wrinkling. With the tongs one can then pull it off—but pull slowly, or you will produce a tear in the stamp. Then repeat the process for the next layer. If the gum looks hopelessly hurt when the last bit is off, put the stamp where it can dry slowly. Nineteen times out of twenty you will be rewarded by seeing the area resume its pristine appearance.

As I have no extended experience with use of the various compounds now sold in liquid form for removing hinges or other adherent paper, it is not possible to comment on whether these forestall damage.

Certain materials have an adverse effect if in contact with many stamps, or even when near them. In older days, when unbleached rubber cement could be had, this adhesive was normally inert towards stamps. But modern rubber cements, used perhaps to affix a cover to the page, are a little likely to produce discolored spots in the stamps on such covers.

The adhesive of Scotch tape is almost sure to discolor any portion of a stamp with which it has contact, though sometimes only after a long time. The use of bits of Scotch tape in place of hinges is thus ruled out. Also, it is all but impossible to detach this tape from paper without carrying along some of the paper itself—producing a thin spot or a hole. However, I report that after eight to ten years the Scotch tape adhesive becomes brittle, so that the tape may even fall off at a touch. But the stain on the stamp is normally left irremovably.

Writing On Stamps

Another way of harming stamps is to write on their backs. If you do it small and lightly, using a very soft pencil, it can normally be removed without risk. The trick in such a case is to use a cube of Art Gum, and to rub in one direction only. If you use a harsher, more solid eraser, you are likely to produce a thin spot. If you rub back and forth the chances are about three to one that you will make a crease in the stamp, no matter how careful you are. I know, from experience.

Catalog numbers or prices, pencilled large and black, or so heavily as to indent the paper, are as objectionable as thin spots or tears. It is even worse if ballpoint or ordinary pen and ink have been used. Also since catalog numbers do change, despite all efforts of publishers to minimize that happening, and as prices vary rapidly, you make a temporary notation into a permanent defect by putting it big and visible, onto the back of a stamp.

Often such markings will become less if one first washes the stamp in water, making sure all the gum, whether original or from hinges, is removed, and then uses the cube of art gum, rubbing in one direction only, after the item is thoroughly dry.

As for rubberstamped markings on the back—those normally turn any stamp into a discard. They often even show through to the front.

Use Plain Water

Finally, you can hurt many stamps by washing them in warm water or by adding anything to the water. Many inks have components which are partly soluble in warm or hot water, so that the shade changes. I can decrease the worth of certain desirable U.S. color varieties, reducing them to the ordinary thing easily, by just the warm water treatment. As for soap or any detergent—many inks have colorings which are not fast to alkalis. Others have components which dissolve in mild acids—so even a bit of lemon juice or a few drops of vinegar will turn their shades. Yellow components of green stamps are specially sensitive in this respect. As for adding salt—it is 100% inert on stamp inks; so to use it in the wash water is just wasted effort.

The Realm Of Stamps

By Montor

THE year 1956 has seen a general quickening of interest in philately throughout the world not only on the part of individuals but also a greater realization on the part of Governments of the publicity value of a country's postage stamps.

It has been a memorable year for stamp collecting on this continent with the eyes of the philatelic world foccussed last spring on "Fipex" held in New York when a world record was set with attendance at the exhibition amounting to no less than 268,000. On the opening day over 60,000 persons visited the exhibition.

In Canada the Canadian Philatelic Society's Exhibition at Windsor, staged so successfully by the Windsor Y Stamp Club, was also a great success drawing large crowds not only from Western Ontario but also from across the river from Detroit and the surrounding country.

The year 1956 also saw new high prices realized for Canadian material in superb condition, the highlight being the figure of $10,000 paid at the Caspary sale for a mint marginal copy of the 12d. black. The demand for choice material is greater than ever before and the classics of all countries in immaculate condition, with special cancellations and on attractive covers continue to fetch high prices.

Another tendency has been the broadening of interest in the stamps of other countries, notably the United Nations, Israel and Vatican City, all of their better items showing wide advances in prices during the past twelve months.

The stamps of many of the so-called unpopular countries have at last come into their own. For example there is now a good demand for the stamps of Portugal and the Portuguese Colonies in the United Kingdom and elsewhere. The tendency to specialize rather than continue a one-stamp collection has greatly increased, which together with the definite shortage and higher prices for attractive items of such popular countries as Canada and the United States, has more or less forced the would-be-specialist to turn to one of the not so popular countries where he has a chance to pick up out of the way material at prices within his means. This in no way is meant to imply that the prices for instance of the early issues of Canada are too high. On the contrary it is this writer's opinion that choice items of Canada especially fine strikes of the scarcer cancellations on the 19th century issues are still a very long way from their true worth, based on their scarcity factor and the persistent demand for these items. Of all stamps the issues of Canada in choice condition seem to present the soundest form of investment in philately today.

Another form of collecting which is daily gaining in popularity is topical collecting. With the virtual impossibility, for all practical purposes, of being able to form a general collection with any prospect of completion, it is the ideal form of collecting, certainly for the beginner and for many whose philatelic pursuits must be guided by the purse strings. For the beginner it is to be thoroughly recommended. A subject can be chosen in which there is already some interest and this can be developed through the formation of a collection of stamps portraying the chosen subject, whether it be ships, trains, birds or butterflies. The possibilities of different subjects is immense, and with the great numbers joining the ranks of thematic collecting, the stamps, especially the earlier ones, depicting topical subjects are rapidly gaining in scarcity. Thematic collecting has, it appears, come to stay and the demand is now so widespread for stamps showing topical subjects, that the Post Office Departments of many countries have taken advantage of this demand, so much so that the great majority of the new issues of the world today fall into one or other category of topical subject.

Such sets, for example, as those recently issued by Sweden and Portugal to commemorate the centenary of their Railway systems will always be in great demand and, if bought at new issue rates, should become good philatelic property. Canada has announced an extensive programme of new postage stamps for 1957 which include a number of stamps for the topical collector.

The year 1957 should be one long to be remembered in Canadian philatelic history. From all indications the Canadian Philatelic Society's Convention and Exhibition in Ottawa next May promises to be an outstanding event. The host clubs the Ottawa Philatelic Society and the R. A. Stamp Club are well advanced with preparations and it is now up to the membership to give this event their full support. Let us hope that there will be a record attendance of the members of the Society in Ottawa next May.

Ever-Growing Popularity of U.S. and B.N.A. Stamps Revealed in 1957 Edition of Harris Catalog

Stamps of the United States, U.S. Possessions and British North America. 1957 Edition, (144 pages, 1500 illustrations) including U.S. Stamp Identifier. Price 25c. Published by H. E. Harris & Co., 2011 Transit Bldg., Boston 17, Mass.

A stronger, more active demand than ever before is clearly spelled out in the 144 pages of H. E. Harris & Co.'s new U.S. & B.N.A. Catalog. Considered the largest and most popular catalog of its kind, this edition shows a substantial number of price adjustments although its appearance follows the previous edition by only about eight months.

Nearly 2000 price revisions have been made by the Harris Co., world's largest stamp firm, in updating their attractive publication for this printing. The profusely illustrated catalog contains a virtually complete listing of the U.S. stamps up to the end of 1956 (including airmails, special delivery, revenues, telegraphs, envelopes, postal cards, etc.) plus all U.S. Possessions, Confederate States, United Nations, Canada, Newfoundland, and the Provinces. Occasional reductions in price are noted, showing that all prices have been carefully edited to reflect the actual wholesale market.

All the popular specialties such as first day covers, plate blocks and mint sheets are completely covered in the new book. One of the valuable extra features is a complete U.S. Stamp Identifier section, showing how to distinguish between rare and common look-alike stamps, even more useful now that the Scott Catalog has given major variety status to the type varieties of 2c and 3c 1914-1921 issues, including the offset printings, as well as the type II of 1922-1926 2c Washington. The catalog numbering is right up to the minute. Collectors will be quick to recognize that this new edition of the Harris U.S. & B.N.A. Catalog is a valuable—almost indispensable—book, worth many times the small 25c charge.

NEW VITALITY IN CANADA DEMAND

Highlight of the British North America section is Canada, second only to U.S. in general popularity and demand.

A new feature is the first-time listing of Canadian plate blocks, which is one of the fields growing rapidly in interest.

Coming at a time when the U.S. & B.N.A. market is so definitely strong and active in all categories, the 1957 edition of the familiar Harris publication will undoubtedly meet with a most enthusiastic reception. Many thousands of collectors and dealers have already established it as the most widely-used catalog in the world. A copy may be obtained for 25c from H. E. Harris & Co., 2011 Transit Bldg., Boston 17, Mass.

DO NOT FAIL TO READ THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON THE NEXT PAGE

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT:

Owing to a series of unfortunate circumstances, this month's THE CANADIAN PHILATELIST, which includes the Year Book, appears a little late, but we hope all members and chapters will bear with us.

The next issue will be mailed on the 6th March and will contain the Prospectus and Entry Form for BYPEX, to be held in Ottawa on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th May next.

The Host Clubs for the Convention and Bypex, the Ottawa Philatelic Society and the R-A Stamp Club, are working hard to make both Convention and BYPEX an outstanding success.

Your Officers and Directors therefore sincerely hope that every member and Chapter, from Coast to Coast, will get behind our Ottawa friends, and that there will be AT LEAST ONE EXHIBIT from each City and Town where the Society has a Chapter, and from other places too.

Don't leave it all to the Ontario and Quebec members and chapters. Let us, in these two provinces, see what the rest of Canada has in the way of philatelic material.

For next year, in Victoria, Ontario and Quebec members and chapters will see to it that they are well represented. Make it a point this year, that the Prairies, British Columbia and the Maritimes are well represented at Ottawa.

To all our members everywhere, and to all our chapters, from Coast to Coast, in the United States and in Ireland, a HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR, philatelically and otherwise, from all your Directors and Officers.

Nous sommes un peu en retard ce mois-ci, pour plusieurs raisons, mais nous espérons que vous ne nous en voudrez pas.

Le prochain numéro paraîtra le 6 mars et comprendra le Prospectus et une demande d'inscription à BYPEX, qui doit avoir lieu à Ottawa les 2, 3 et 4 mai prochains.

Les deux sociétés d'Ottawa, l'OTTAWA PHILATELIC SOCIETY et le R-A STAMP CLUB, s'efforcent de faire un très grand succès de ce congrès et de l'exposition.

Votre bureau exécutif espère très sincèrement que chacun, membres et sociétés régionales, s'efforceront d'appuyer Ottawa dans toute la mesure du possible.

Que nous y ayons donc au moins un exhibit de chaque ville où nous avons une société régionale, et d'autres encore.

A tous nos camarades philatélistes partout, au Canada et ailleurs, UNE BIEN BONNE ET HEUREUSE ANNEE, philatéliquement et autre, de la part de tous les membres de votre conseil d'administration.

When Ottawa Was Bytown From 1827-1854

Lieut. Colonel John By

OTTAWA—The city which became the Capital of Canada, had several names given by those first settlers travelling the early river-highway from Montreal to Upper Canada and into the vast unexplored regions beyond. Prior to 1827, Ottawa first was called "Iles aux Chaudieres" because of the islands; "Barriere", on account of the falls which obstructed navigation; "Chaudiere Falls", due to the falls there; "The Point", because of the bold and beautiful headland below the falls; "Richmond Landing", for the early Richmond settlers who stopped there on their journeying from Montreal to Richmond; "Bellow's Landing", on account of the wharf built at the foot of the south portage by Caleb T. Bellows; "Nepean", for the township in which it was situated; and finally, during the construction of the Rideau Canal, "BYTOWN", in honour of Lieut. Colonel By who built the canal.

The town carried the name, Bytown, from 1827-1854. However, at the time when hopes ran high over the possibility of the town being chosen for the Capital City, it was felt the use of the suffix "town" in any combination was not suitable for such a high honour. From 1835 until 1855 there were many names proposed and scores of arguments and discussions until finally—after Queen Victoria had made her choice—the Act proclaiming the new name was effected January 1, 1855, and the City of Bytown became the City of Ottawa—a name already well-known, it being the name of the Indian tribes living in that part of Canada and also the name of the river, second in importance to the St. Lawrence historically and second, also, in length, being 800 miles long.

In 1832, Lieut. Colonel By was recalled to England to explain excess expenditures over the estimated cost of the canal, even though upon investigation he had been given laudatory praise for his accomplishment.

He returned to England expecting commendation and possible knighthood at the completion of his task. However, neither was forthcoming and Colonel By felt himself ill-used, never fully recovering from the disappointment and died soon after. History now feels that Colonel By was no doubt the victim of circumstances and scapegoat of military authorities and politicians.

Colonel By, even though he spent but a few years in the town named after him, left a living monument behind him in the form of the canal and a series of locks along the Rideau River from Kingston to Ottawa. Not much is known concerning the life of Colonel By; nor are there pictures of him or his family in any great number. This picture of Colonel By is a reproduction of a photograph kept at the Royal Engineers' Museum at Brompton Barracks, Chatham, England. The whereabouts of the original painting is not known, and it is thought that this portrait is the only existant one of Bytown's founder in Canada.

The seals to be used for BYPEX, the Canadian Philatelic Society show to be held in Ottawa in May, 1957, are a replica of the squared circle cancellation used many years ago when Ottawa was known as Bytown.

The squared circle is a combination of the circular town or city cancel and the bar cancel which were used either together or separately on the early Canadian classics.

The BYPEX seals are yellow and black, made up in sheets of six and will be sold—two sheets for 25c—to anyone sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with their request to Mrs. Laura Barnard, Publicity Chairman, BYPEX, Box #128, Station D, Ottawa, Canada.

This Is Your Year Book

— The Year Book is an edition which we all endeavor to keep for reference.

— This issue is partly supported by our advertisers which is rather a weak spot at all times. We could do much better if some of our closets friends and members would support C.P.S. in the way they do other publications. (Please note!)

— If your name is not listed we are sorry, but surely you fully intended to pay your fees to the secretary after getting the president's letter?

— At least you can tell us what's wrong with C.P.S. and may be we can do something about it. Don't be cruel!

— Lets all pull together! Don't leave it all to the willing horses!

— Don't forget Ottawa in May.

— Pleased to hear from you!
